

Arabah
March 7th [1933]

220⁴
Arabah

March 7th

Dear Mother.

We have a raven. he is called nuhay which is arabic for raven. One of our Soudanis caught him & brought him into the temple with his poor legs & wings all tied with rope. we were very angry. & did our best to untie him without hurting him & set him free in one of the open rooms in the temple. he was quite paralyzed with terror & just flopped in a corner panting, so we left water within reach & left him to recover, when we looked at him later on we found him hopping about but, unable to fly although his wings seemed uninjured. so we took him

Dear Mother.

We have a raven. he is called nuhay which is Arabic for raven. One of our Soudanis caught him & brought him into the temple with his poor legs & wings all tied with rope. we were very angry. & did our best to untie him without hurting him & set him free in one of the open rooms in the temple, he was quite paralyzed^{sic} with terror & just flopped in a corner panting, so we left water within reach & left him to recover, when we looked at him later on we found him hopping about but, unable to fly although his wings seemed uninjured. so we took him back to the house & left him loose in the out house where all our ladders scaffolds etc are stored during the summer, it is empty now except for some packing cases & shavings, we are hoping he may recover the use of his wings, we feed him on scraps of meat etc & he has an excellent appetite, he does not seem to mind Amice & I picking him up, & he will sit on my lap like Tucker did & let me scratch his head. but he is frightened if he sees any of the men. & yesterday I took him outside & put him down to see if he would try to fly. but he ran straight back into the out house.

2

He is such a beauty & has an enormous beak. he pecked Amice's nose when she picked him up in the temple.

back to the house & left him loose in the out house where all our ladders scaffolds etc are stored during the summer, it is empty now except for some packing cases & shavings, we are hoping he may recover the use of his wings, we feed him on scraps of meat etc & he has an excellent appetite, he does not seem to mind Amice & I picking him up, & he will sit on my lap like Tucker did & let me scratch his head. but he is frightened if he sees any of the men. & yesterday I took him outside & put him down to see if he would try to fly. but he ran straight back into the out house.

He is such a beauty & has an enormous beak. he pecked Amice's nose when she picked him up in the temple.

he was quite all right until he saw the men, & then he struggled & pecked, so we put him in a box to take to the house. He hasn't attempted to peck since, as we do not let the men come into the out house.

He must have had something the matter with his wings when the Soudani caught him, as he said he was "standing on the ground"

it seems as if he gets cramp or something. He can flap them but cannot rise up, I do hope he will get all right as we will not know what to do with him when we leave.

I am now busy writing the story of Osiris & Isis in Arabic. I do not know what the school master will make of it. He was very interested.

he was quite all right until he saw the men, & then he struggled & pecked, so we put him in a box to take to the house. he has^{'nt}^{sic} attempted to peck since, as we do not let the men come into the out house

He must have had something the matter with his wings when the Soudani caught him, as he said he was "standing on the ground" it seems as if he gets cramp or something. he can flap them but cannot rise up, I do hope he will get all right as we will not know what to do with him when we leave.

I am now busy writing the story of Osiris & Isis in Arabic. I do not know what the schoolmaster will make of it. He was very interested in the story of Queen Eleanor. If you can get a postcard of the cross at Charing Cross or any of the crosses will

4
 you send it to me to show him
 he will be leaving for his holidays
 the end of this month but I could
 post it to him when I send a lesson
 to be corrected.

I forgot to say Amice still has a nose.
 it bled a little after it was pecked,
 & we dabbed iodine on so she looked
 funny that evening but next day
 there was hardly any thing to show.

Love to you both from
 both of us.

Your affectionate
 daughter

Myrtle.

in the story of Queen Eleanor. If you can get a postcard of the cross at Charing Cross or any of the crosses will
 you send it to me to show him
 he will be leaving for his holidays
 the end of this month but I could
 post it to him when I send a lesson
 to be corrected

I forgot to say Amice still has a nose.
 it bled a little after it was pecked,
 & we dabbed iodine on so she looked
 funny that evening but next day
 there was hardly anything to show.

Love to you both from
 both of us.

Your affectionate
 daughter
 Myrtle.