Dear Mother.

I am so sorry to hear poor Buffles is in such a bad way. I will write to her next market day, evidently Ron is very worried about her. We are now in Ramadan. It was the last day of the previous month, Sheban^{sic} {Sha'ban}, when we were in Girga & the people were having a sort of procession there were decorated carts, & some represented various trades, & we saw a lot of small children running along under nets, Sandu told us they were the fishes & the idea was to insure a good catch in the coming month, we had quite a job to get along the streets they were so full of people, but it was great fun seeing them all. Now the men are fasting during the day & feasting at night, they watch for the sunset very eagerly. & are very sleepy during the day, the end of Ramadan comes just after our Christmas so we shall be having our feasts near together.

Nannie has been making strange erections in the garden, she is afraid the cold wind at night may do harm to the young beans. so she has made a sort of Bedwin^{sic} tent with sacks & odd bits of rag stuck up on straw stalks, this is set up at night & taken down in the morning.

The new dinner set sounds very pretty. I suppose it will be possible to replace breakages. Is May as good at smashing as Mrs Childs & Beatrice? Poor Beatrice I am sorry she had such bad luck in her next place

I do not think the riots in Cairo were very serious, the school boys are always getting out of hand & causing disturbances. Last year they smashed up a lot of new motor busses the first day they started running. The Egyptians make no attempt to control their young, & do not punish them when they get out of hand

Lots of love to you & Father.
Your affectionate daughter
