Dear Mother.

I am once more alone in my glory here.

Little Un departed yesterday & Amice went off to Cairo the day before. There are several matters she wants to attend to personally there, also she is in a great state of fuss about Little Un she has got the idea that if she does not buy his tickets herself & see him off etc that he will go & racket round Cairo & just waste his passage money on foolishness. I do not know when she will be back so I cannot go ahead with my preparations for the camel trip I told you about in my last letter. I may have to abandon the idea for this season as the hot weather has set in very early this year & this would make it hard for camels to go 4 or 5 days without water & I don't know if I should enjoy going all that time in a state of sweat & no possibility of a wash until I got back. I have thought of another plan. That is, to ask Betty Oulton if I can have a shake down on her veranda for a few nights & a corner of the compound for the camel & do long day trecks from there. I can get across the river (camel on barge) To Ahkmim & explore the desert on that side for a good many miles, & I know Sheikh Sarbit ~~for a~~ will provide me with a reliable guide & procure anything else I may require, there are several Tombs in the cliffs near his village & it will be fun to go & examine them & when I do get back to Betty's there will be a bath. It is very sad having our pleasant trinity broken up. Little Un was getting very nervy & jumpy. he could not work if there was the least sound the men must not even converse in whispers & he drove the friendly sparrows away because their chirping irritated him & he plugged his ears with cotton wool so as not to hear the slight sounds of our brush washings & paint mixings & very occasional remarks. he took to working on our days off & having another one in the week for himself, & then triet

To fix up a contrivance for electric light so as to work by himself all night. Amice put her foot down at that & he got in an awful state about it. & when the ~~Dr~~ ^(the Dr) saw him & had a talk with him he told Amice it was impossible for him to go on here & if he continued he might attempt something unpleasant. Little Un was both glad & sorry to go. he said most of the jobs he has taken up have ended in the same way. I am enclosing a few more pelican & puppy snaps Amice had some more printed for you. the legs belong to Monsieur Roche. & there is one of me with both of them standing before a large candle cactus.

Lots of love to you both.
Your affectionate daughter
Myrtle.
