In the temple

Dear Mother.

I am off to Sohag next Tuesday to stay with Betty for a week. I am going to ride the camel as far as Girga about 15 miles & take the train from there & Singab (the camel man) will continue by road, & will arrive in Sohag the following morning. I hope to explore all the desert etc in the neighbourhood by camel, & I will hire a donkey for Sardinia to ride from Sohag.

I like D^r Junker's assistant very much she is quiet & sensible & enjoys a bit of fun. a much more suitable girl for here than Linda was, of course she is a good bit older. she is finding the work very difficult, she has been drawing chiefly flints & pots for D^r Junker. but she is very neat & painstaking, so I do hope she will get into it all right, so far she is only practicing^{sic} on odd photographs.

Last Monday was a feast day & all the men brought us loaves of their feast bread. so we had to taste a piece of each. and wish them good luck.

The puppies are growing very fast, Fill-fill has returned to her own home, I can't remember if I told you ~~that~~ this in my last letter or not. Wipwat & Hakim always come running to meet us when we return & expect us to have a game with them, they are very good friends & Wip-wat does not seem to miss his mother at all. The two pups & the cat will all feed out of the same dish quite happily, I think the cat comes off rather badly in the amount of his share. but as he is allowed to come in at our supper time, he makes up for it then.

I had a huge rat in my room one night. it ran over my bed twice, & made so much noise rustling paper, trying to get into the wash basin etc that I had a very disturbed night, when I tried to drive it out it always ran under something where I could not get at it, & then, as soon as I was settling down to sleep, it would start rampaging round again. Abdullah set a trap & caught it the next day & kept it to show me when I came back from the temple.

My next letter will be from Sohag.

Your affectionate daughter

Myrtle

Love to you both & to Pat.
