Dear Mother

I had three letters from you today after having no English mail for over a week I suppose something got held up somewhere. The tea pot spouts also arrived per sample post without any fuss or bother. Nannie is delighted. Her own special small teapot looks rather like a fat baby elephant with its trunk elevated now it has the rubber continuation. it pours splendidly instead of dribbling with lamentable results. The L.H.J & Humourists also helped to fill out the mail bag. it was like a second Xmas. We are making big bundles of all our looked at mags & papers & sending them to the Sailors Home at Alexandria & the Oultons have the London Illustrateds' so lots of people benefit by them.

We have been playing Badminton in the little space of time that the light lasts after we have finished our work, it is great fun & cheers us up tremendously, we often have to stop our game to admire the sunset, the colours are simply unbelievable some times, & the hills go the most lovely violet.

I have got so used to this life in the East that the sights & sounds seem no longer strange it is wonderful that one can feel so much at home in two such totally different existences

This will be rather a short letter this time as I must write to thank Sallie for the pretty hankie she sent me; I will enclose it with this for you to forward as I do not know her address.

Please thank Father for his letter. I am glad to hear all the garage news. I am so pleased he has bought you Henry VIII I am sure & you will have many hours enjoyment reading it.

Amice thanks you also for your letter & Nannie is delighted with Old Moore.

I also had a letter from Eric, I cant help feeling there is something strange about his wedding he doesn't sound a bit like a bridegroom should he has'nt even mentioned his bride!! I enclose it
