Dear Mother.

I was very interested to read all the news about Annie. I am so glad Beatrice is stronger & working regularly. I suppose Annie did not know of any one to suit us.

Amice & I had a very grim task the other evening. Hakim got some sort of illness, it might have been distemper, he was in a very miserable state for several days nose eyes & mouth all discharging & probably very infectious, so it seemed wisest to put him to sleep. We made a bag of a pair of old breeches soaked a pad of cotton wool with ether & held it over his head. He was unconscious in less than a minute, & we kept adding ether until his heart stopped. He was a very silly useless sort of dog & difficult to give medicine to. He would get annoyed & snap. Now Wip-wat will let us do anything to him, he chaffed the inside of his leg raw one day with his chain. & I put some idione^{sic} on it, it stung him & made him yelp, but the next moment he was licking my hand. we were very afraid he might have caught the illness from Hakim, so we gave him a good dose of castor oil. he took it like a lamb, & up to now continues in excellent health. so we hope he has escaped.

The guards dog always looks for his piece of bread when I pass on my return from work. Mahommed is very amused at the interest we take in him & always tells him to rise when I come in sight. not that the dog needs any telling as he is straining on his chain & his tail going 19 to the dozen. the very first moment he sees me.

Lots of love to you & father

also to Pat.
