

Arabah. el Madfunah

182

Dear Mother.

We have been into Bahana today to smell the orange blossom in the garden there, there are hundreds of great trees in full bloom & I have never known anything as lovely as the scent, some of the other orange trees are still bearing their fruit though the season is nearly at an end, we purchased a weeks supply to take back with us.

I have purchased two fine dictionaries for my arabic study, they arrived today & I fetched them from the post office they cost about £1-6- in English money. but it is difficult to get on without them & I shall need them at home for my arabic correspondence

When Amice came to unpack her case after her visit to Cairo she found she had left all her undies behind her at Lady Rowlatts. so she wrote a very appologetic rhyme asking them to keep them for her until she comes down to Cairo again, as she does not need them in

Arabah. el Madfunah
[probably 22 March 1932]

Dear Mother.

We have been into Baliana to-day to smell the orange blossom in the garden there, there are hundreds of great trees in full bloom & I have never known anything as lovely as the scent, some of the other orange trees are still bearing their fruit though the season is nearly at an end, we purchae/<s>ed a weeks<sup>sic</sup> supply to take back with us.

I have purchae/<s>ed two fine dictionaries for my arabic<sup>sic</sup> study, they arrived to-day & I fetched them from the post office they cost about £1-6- in English money. but it is difficult to get on without them & I shall need them at home for my Arabic correspondence

When Amice came to unpack her case after her visit to Cairo she found she had left all her undies behind her at Lady Rowlatts<sup>sic</sup>. so she wrote a very appologetic rhyme asking them to keep them for her until<sup>sic</sup> she comes down to Cairo again, as she does not need them in the desert. a few days after a parcel arrived from Lady Rowlett, & Amice of course thought that they had posted her undies after all, but when opened the contents were not undies but lemons!!!! great beauties from their own garden, & a great treat to us, as we have no lemons here. of course we had a good laugh about it

2

182

I am so sorry you have both had such bad colds. I hope by now the severe weather is over, we are having a hot spell now & have difficulty in keeping our hands cool for our painting, we have to ~~wet~~rinse them frequently in cold water.

We may be here another month or five weeks or possibly less, it is difficult to know exactly how long all the finishing up will take, I am sorry our Red Sea trip will not come off after all. the Oultons & the Fosters find they cannot manage it. & we think it too risky to go with only our car as in case of a breakdown or sticking in sand one is quite

the desert. a few days after a parcel arrived from Lady Rowlett, & Amice of course thought that they had posted her undies after all, but when opened the contents were not undies but lemons!!!! great beauties from their own garden, & a great treat to us, as we have no lemons here. of course we had a good laugh about it

I am so sorry you have both had such bad colds, I hope by now the severe weather is over, We are having a hot spell now & have difficulty in keeping our hands cool for our painting, we have to ~~wet~~rinse them frequently in cold water.

We may be here another month or five weeks or possibly less, it is difficult to know exactly how long all the finishing up will take, I am sorry our Red Sea trip will not come off after all. the Oultons & the Fosters find they cannot manage it. & we think it too risky to go with only our car as in case of a breakdown or sticking in sand one is quite helpless. & it is now too hot to go by camel. I am not really surprised, I had a feeling it would fall through. The plans were always being changed. so am not as disappointed as I might have been. & I did enjoy my jaunts about here.

182<sup>3</sup>

Amice joins me in lots of love
to you both.

Your affectionate daughter
Myrtle.

helpless. & it is now too hot to go by camel. I am not really surprised, I had a feeling it would fall through. the plans were always being changed. so am not as disappointed as I might have been. & I did enjoy my jaunts about here.

Amice J/<j>oins me in lots of love
to you both.

Your affectionate daughter
Myrtle.