Dear M<sup>rs</sup> Broomie & 'Pa' Broomie

I've been wanting to write to you for ages but some how jobs are so many & I'm that weak-minded that it hasn't got done - I was so strongly reminded by M<sup>r</sup> & M<sup>rs</sup> Sparrow that it was time a letter went off to you that I drew his portrait - his eye had the beady look of the ancient mariner (but I fear crumbs were really the reason for the beady glances!) The sparrow pictures are - (a) 'You haven't written to the Broomies' (or ~~y~~/where are my crumbs?) (b) Hurrah! Crumbs! (c) Too big a bit for a bird to swallow (d) Its<sup>sic</sup> now the right size to get down. (e) ~~Therere~~/ere are only wee crumblets left & a bird has to get down to see them let alone eat them! (f) M<sup>rs</sup> Sparrow who is shy & looks & thinks a long time before she is brave enough to hop up & get a bite - (g) all gone - off to home + a comfy nest - I wanted to make a picture of Myrtle's friend the bee but its been so cold the last two days that I didn't see him anywhere - perhaps later he'll let me get a chance for his portrait -

Myrtle looks very well ~~is~~ is going on like a steam engine - Volume II should soon add itself to the contents of your house - bigger bookshelves needed I fear - its good to see it complete with cover on - when I walk through the parts now finished I feel a sort of lightening - as though if a portion of the world - say the moon falling out of the Pacific Ocean - had slipped off poor Atlas' shoulders & he able to straighten up a bit -

I hear from my sister that she is starting an incubator baby chicks are delightful but I can't say I like hens
 - another bit of news I'm anxiously awaiting is as to Peggy - (Dad's & Rose's dog) she is expecting her first family I'm told - I do wonder what they'll be like!

Much love to you both yours affectionately Amice
