Dear Mother.

I hope this letter will arrive in time to wish you Many Happy Returns of your Birthday. All the various things you have sent out here have caused great joy & all send their greetings & say "May your years be lengthened." I gave two of the little calenders^{sic} to my two sheikhs. they know the English numbers, & I carefully filled in the names of the months in Arabic for them & explained the meaning of the word Greetings on the covers. I chose the two that were alike in design only one was blue & silver & the other is was red & silver. the others are divided among ourselves & the larger variety adorn the various rooms in our house.

Will you ask Father to thank M^{rs} Anderson for the pretty calender^{sic} she sent, I have hung it in our dining room for all to admire. we all like the little verse.

As my story of the origin of the title of the Prince of Wales aroused so much interest, I am starting to write the story of Lewellyn & his dog, (I shall not disclose the sad fact that Bethgelert has no connection with the legend.) This week Sheikh Sarbit returns to his home for Ten days holiday but Sheikh Jed el Karim will give me lessons instead, I am still struggling with the hand writing having got used to the other I find it very difficult to change my style, when I remarked to Sheikh Sarbit about the difficulty he said I must pull together my strength, or, as we should say "pull up my socks"

Amice has decided that the pup is to be Wip-wat the Second, he is growing in size & mischief every day

D^r Gardiner has sent three volumes of the History of Every day things in England, & we are to select which we like, as we have already the first two I am having the third volume. there are lots of interesting things of our locality in it. Ashridge, Berkhamstead & Waters End are mentioned. I am sure Father will enjoy it when I bring it home.

Things are going on here just as usual. I am glad to say I had the accounts in perfect order & correctly balanced at the end of each month. I didn't get into the muddles that Amice does because I checked everything each week instead of leaving everything till the end & getting desperate, but it did take up a lot of my spare time.

Greetings & Birthday Wishes
from all of us to you on the 18th

Love to you both & Pat.

Your affectionate daughter
Myrtle.
